Foreword

MANY years ago, the young queen Scheherezade diverted her king, Shahriar, with a thousand and one tales, so wondrous and strange that he spared her life by retracting a former bloody vow of death to all his wives.

These fascinating tales were too wonderful to entrust to the treacherous and feeble memories of man. They were copied in writing, and so have been handed down through generations, finally being known to us as the Arabian Nights.

We, too, have our thousand and one tales to tell, of our days at Susquehanna, of the friends we have made here, and our play, and our work. And so we have compiled this, our RECORD BOOK, not to tell the history of one year, but by this assemblage of faces and facts to recall countless fading thoughts and images, as our minds seek to restore fond memories from the dim past of our college days.

If we can but feel that this has been done, then it is with a complete sense of gratification that we, the Class of 1933, present this volume of THE LANTHORN.

Susquehanna University

SUSQUEHANNA UNIVERSITY had its beginning as Missionary Institute, the cornerstone of which was laid on September 1, 1858. The founder was the Reverend Dr. Benjamin Kurtz, an eminent divine of the Lutheran Church of his day. The school was established to supply the need for more ministers. From this original motive, it has broadened its scope to include the preparation of young men and young women for all honorable vocations in life, never ceasing to emphasize the necessity of the Christian ethic in all true education.

In 1894 its corporate name was changed to Susquehanna University. Born in faith, organized and promoted through prayer, it has grown steadily to its present strength.

Since then the Susquehanna University has made remarkable progress. In 1858 Selinsgrove Hall was the only building on the campus, and now the University includes many fine buildings: Selinsgrove Hall, Hassinger Hall, Gustavus Adolphus, Seibert Hall, the Alumni Gymnasium, the University Laundry, a modern steam heating plant, the Conservatory of Music, Charles Steele Science Hall, Faculty Homes, and a new library.

Susquehanna University is beautifully situated on an elevation, just outside the borough limits of Selinsgrove, about one-half mile from the west bank of the Susquehanna River. Overlooking one of the most scenic sections of the historical valley, the site itself is of remarkable beauty, being only a few miles below the confluence of the North and West branches of the Susquehanna River. It commands an outlook of more than ten miles of the great valley, so rich in Indian legend, and the wooded hills of Northumberland County, just beyond the river.

With these descriptive details concerning the life, development, and growth of Susquehanna University one can more fully understand and appreciate her present existence.

Alma Mater

The story we would tell you, friends,
 Would cover many a book;
 The subject matter of the same
 Is found in every nook,
 Of old S. U.'s broad campus,
 The common battle-ground
 Whose trees might whisper secrets grave,
 Amusing and profound.

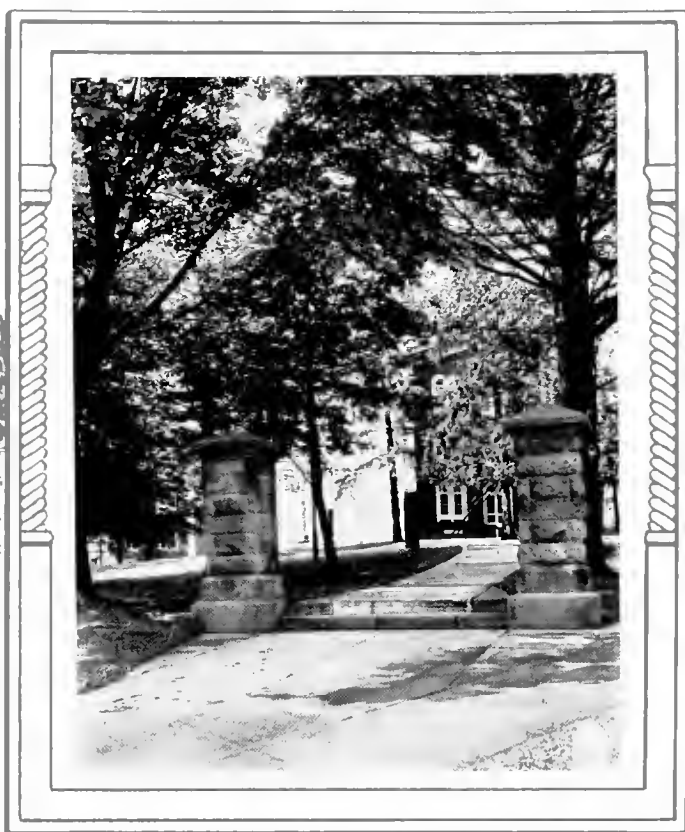

CHORUS

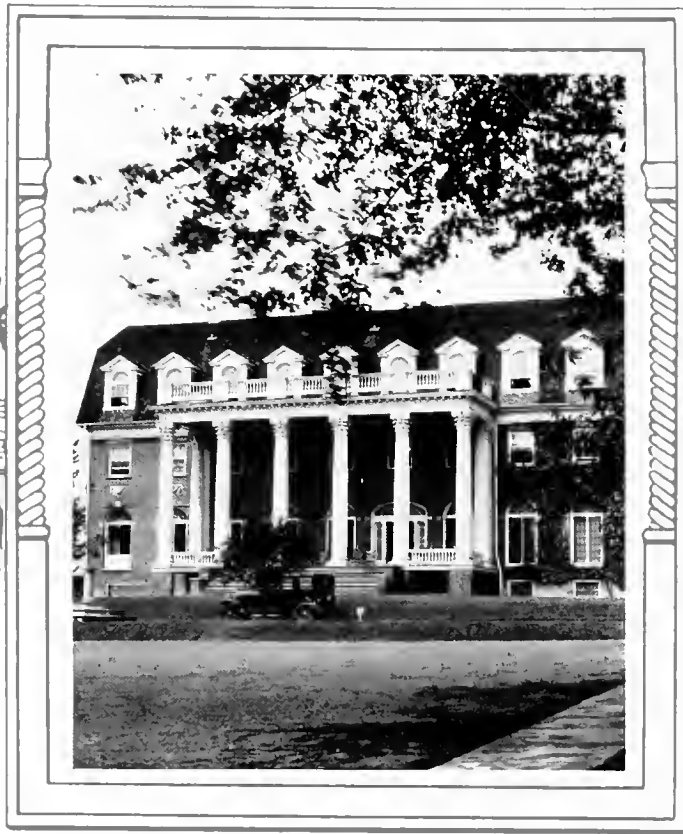

Of Susquehanna now we sing,
 Let Susquehanna's praises ring,
 Loyal to her by night and by noon,
 We'll raise the Orange and Maroon,
 Loyal to her by night and by noon,
 We'll raise the Orange and Maroon.

How dear to one and all the name
 Their Alma Mater bears,
 When they have left its classic halls,
 To shoulder worldly cares,
 Of winning maids and noble lords
 Of dear old college days,
 Come join in recollections fond,
 And tell us of your ways.

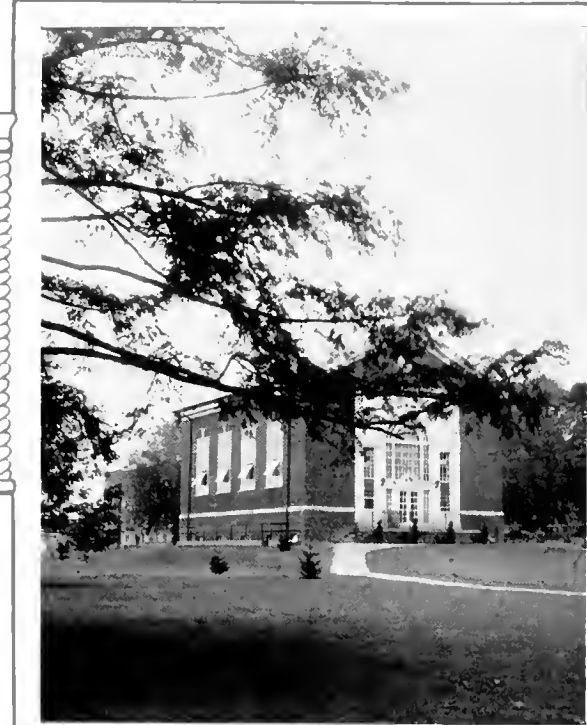

In classroom and on gridiron, friends,
 S. U. will stand the test:
 Defeat to her a word unknown,
 Her motto, "Do your best,"
 With vim, then let us give the yell,
 Display her banner bright,
 That all may know of old S. U.,
 She stands for God and Right.

BY ELECTRICAL transcription, you will now hear the farewell program of the Class of '32 from station W.B.S.U. at Selinsgrove, Pennsylvania. For four years these programs have been coming to you over this same station. In a reminiscent mood, the Class of '32 will review briefly the events of its four years at Susquehanna University.

The first important event was, of course, the arrival on S. U.'s campus. In September, 1928, one hundred and thirty-five green, but eager Freshmen arrived at Susquehanna to begin their respective college careers.

In our Freshman year we staged a lively "Get-Away" with much opposition from Sophomores, trolley conductors, and officers of the law. We again outwitted our rivals, the Sophomores, on Alumni Day when we won the annual football game by a score of 2-0. Even as yearlings, we could boast of several letter men on the various Varsity teams.

As Sophomores we again won the Alumni Day gridiron battle, this time from the Frosh, with the smashing score of 24-0. The men were champions of the Inter-class Soccer Match, and the women were the proud winners of the Inter-Class Basketball League.

During our Junior year we took our places as upperclassmen with pride and dignity. We were again in the front, as far as athletics were concerned, and easily gained the championship of both men's and women's Intra-Mural Basketball. The Juniors took first place in the Indoor Track Meet. As Juniors, we also published a successful and attractive LANTHORN, and conducted a Junior Prom that is not likely to be forgotten for some time.

Before the Class of '32 signs off, they wish to remind you that they had the highest scholastic average for the year. They were also the Champion of Champions in Intra-Mural Sports.

Before we hear the strains of "Au Revoir," we want to encourage those who are to come after us to catch the true Susquehanna spirit, and to carry on in the name of the "Little Crusader."

“TIME rolls his ceaseless course.” Was it yesterday or yesteryear that ninety wide-eyed Freshmen stood waiting eagerly to shake hands with Old Dame Wisdom? Besides ushering in Freshman Week for the first time at Susquehanna, we found that quality overshadowed quantity in our selection as students of the Class of 1933.

For two years we held our own, in activities, interclass competition, and scholastic honors, in spite of the fact that since our early days nearly half of the men and several of the women have dropped from our class roster.

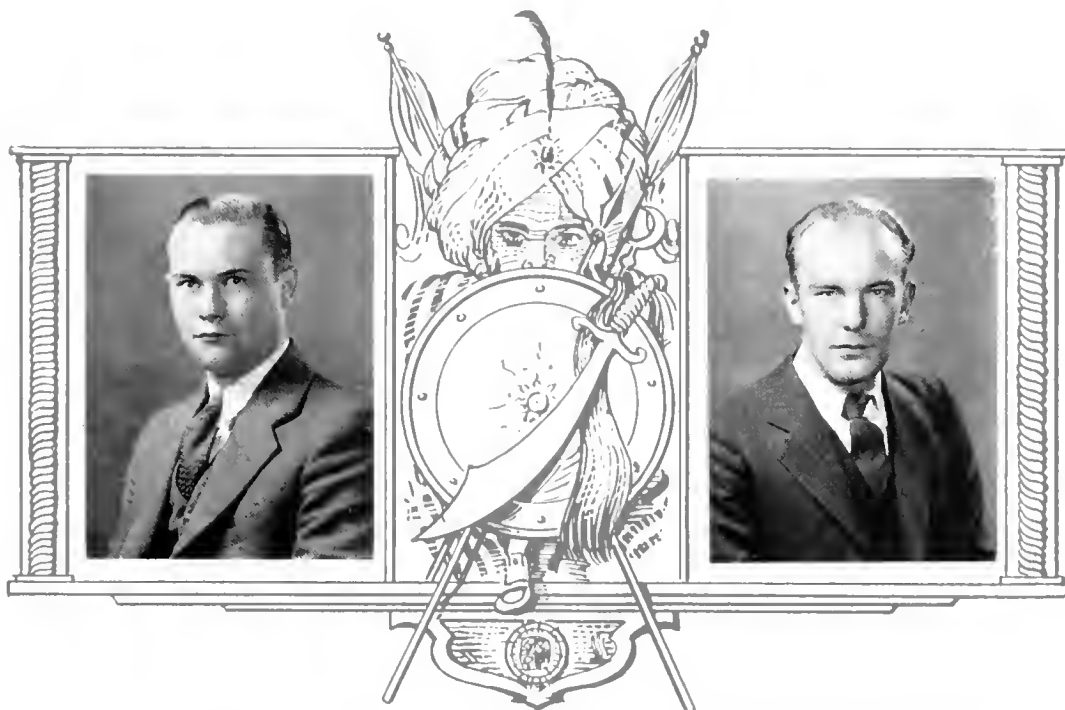

And now our Red Letter Day has come. We are JUNIORS! Besides striving for supremacy in class rivalry, we are now learning how to live, broadening our views by experience, and endeavoring to maintain and raise the standards of our Alma Mater.

The Junior Prom and THE LANTHORN stand out in this, our third college year, as indicative of our initiative and prowess, although we continue to be well represented in all other fields of activity. The Penn Relay Team for the past two years has been composed largely of members of the Class of '33, and all other Varsity teams have been strengthened by the presence of our classmates.

As we come to the close of this college year, it is with regret rather than with anticipation that we look forward to the one that yet remains to us. For we realize what a very short year that will be to us who still have so much we should like to do. We wonder if we should care to turn back the wheels of time and try those three years over again.

But, no! Time still rolls his ceaseless course. We cannot look backwards, but ever forward. In our one remaining year we cannot pass those few days in regrets, but in laboring earnestly to profit by those missteps in the past, and to broaden further our vision of life in striving to uphold and perpetuate the traditions and ideals of old S. U.

"Anchors aweigh!" says Sailor Ahl, and whether on land or on the high seas, we know he will strive his utmost to reach his goal. It is for this that we best know Bill. No fancy words or inspired phrases from this man's man, but the ability to weigh carefully what he wants to say, and then deliver it from the shoulder, straight and simple.

Ideals are more than a word or illusion to Bill. He is the kind that is always among the first to volunteer his services, whether for class or school. And so, for more than alphabetical reasons we are proud to have the name of "Ahl" first on our class roll.

JOHN E. BALLENTINE

Somerville, New Jersey

Business Administration Phi Mu Delta

Somerville High School; Chairman, Junior Prom Committee, (3); Glee Club, (1, 2, 3); University Band, (1, 2, 3), Secretary, (3); Class Basketball, 2, 3; Class Soccer, (1, 2); Manager, Class Golf, (2, 3); Class Football, (1, 2); Dramatics, (1, 2, 3); Business Administration Association, (2, 3).

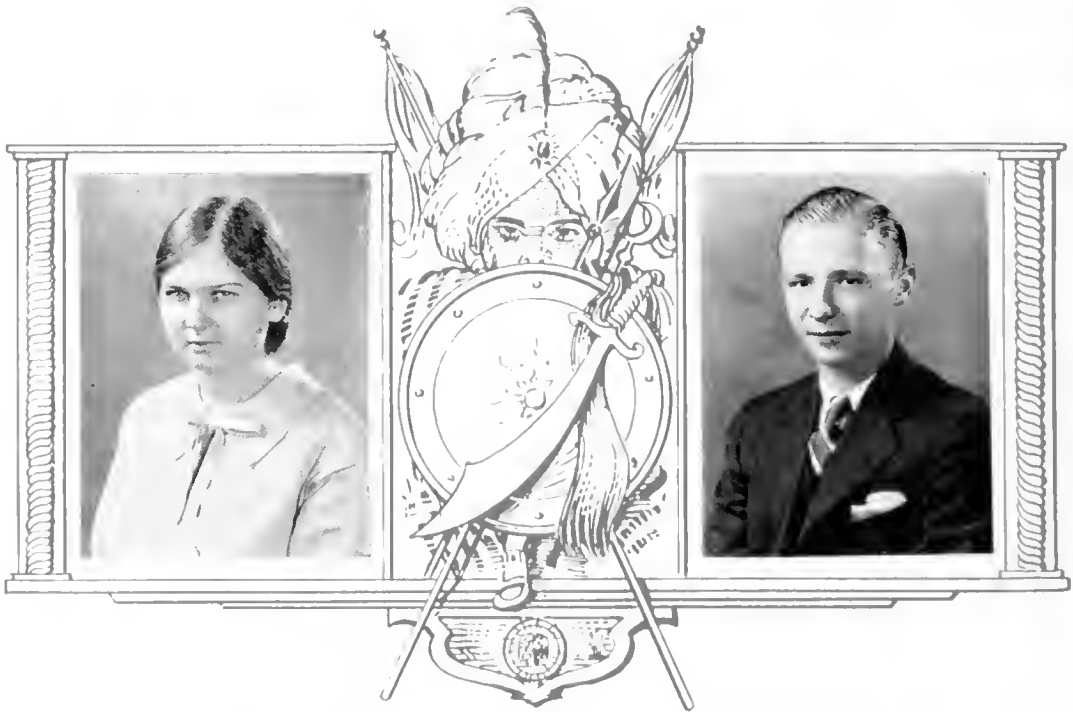

New Jersey has sent this suave young gentleman to Susquehanna so that he might return with a knowledge of business, and at the same time represent his native state to advantage on our campus.

Johnny has done the latter to such a commendable extent that, besides displaying considerable skill as an actor in campus productions, he has been a faithful member of the Band and Glee Club, and also active in class competition. He has been rewarded for his ability and interest this year by receiving the most signal honor of being Chairman of the Junior Prom.

However, if we should grow to forget his activities, his pleasing disposition and ready smile should readily bring back agreeable memories of Johnny.

GRACE CAROLYN BOYLE

Wolverton Street
Sunbury, Pa.

Bachelor of Science

Sunbury High School; French Club, (1, 2); Mathematics Club, (2).

Grace is one of the quiet, unassuming members of our class, commuting to Susquehanna from Sunbury. It is probably because of the fact that she lives away from our campus that so few of us have really learned to know her. Those who have, however, are prompt to vouch for her as a staunch and true friend.

Perhaps a bit more serious minded than the average college student, Grace devotes considerable time to her studies, and in the classroom is seldom to be found wanting for an answer. She is particularly interested in mathematics, and as a teacher in this field, we may safely predict a successful future for Grace.

"Branny" is the kind of a young man who might typify the ideal college man. Earnest about studies and athletics, he is ambitious and capable enough to make good in both, and still have enough time left over to give the co-eds a break or take part in some good, wholesome fun.

As a Varsity pitcher, Hughey has already won the highest of honors by hurling a no-hit, no-run game in his Sophomore year, thereby entering baseball's Hall of Fame.

However, whatever honors he may attain, "Branny" remains quite unaffected, and it is by this rather shy, inoffensive, and most agreeable self that we remember him.

MRS. MARGARET BENNER BURNS
Selinsgrove, Pa.

Bachelor of Music

Ladies Choral Club, (3); Combined Choral Club, (3).

Entering the Class of 1933 for the first time this year, as a day student and a married woman, one might think that Mrs. Burns had a considerable handicap to overcome in becoming a real part of Susquehanna. This observation was not long in being discarded permanently.

After several brilliant musical performances she soon became well known to everyone, and without effort has become well liked by all those with whom she has come into contact. One of our best performers on the piano, Mrs. Burns should go far with her talent and most agreeable nature.

This little boy with the little name has succeeded in carving himself a considerable portion of popularity and attainment on the campus. Weighing in the neighborhood of 120 pounds, his remarkable athletic prowess and fighting spirit have carried Freddie into a good share of action on the Varsity football field and baseball diamond.

Upholding the "coal-cracker" tradition, Fred has further distinguished himself by holding his weight championship in boxing on the campus, and also the respect of his classmates. Fortunately for those who might invite trouble, Freddy has no difficulty in keeping himself good-natured and under control at all times, the best quality of a good fighter.

RUSSELL N. CARMICHAEL

Bachelor of Arts Phi Mu Delta

Johnstown Central High School; Varsity Football, (1, 2); Track, (1, 2, 3); Class President, (1).

Studies and work while attending college do not prevent Russ from finding time to associate with his classmates and turn out when the occasion arises. Russ is a member of the old school of tradition, who is always ready to follow his team away from home and give his whole-hearted support, whether in victory or defeat.

Although a great scrapper when necessary, Russ prefers to maintain his usual kindly and good-humored nature, which belies a natural gridiron face. The ever-present Ford and a tousled head of hair complete Russ' appearance on every occasion, since nearly every occasion finds Russ present.

Old Erin did well to send this lanky, good-natured son of hers to Susquehanna as representative of her race. Track, basketball, and the ladies serve to keep a contented grin on this shining, Irish face, as Bill strides along with a cheery salute for everyone.

His colorful six feet of Jersey sunshine would be a welcome addition to any campus, for whether he gallops around the cinder oval with prodigious strides, tosses in those one-hand "Carolan only" shots on the basketball court, talks, dances, or merely smiles his way into your life, Bill is sure to hold at least one tiny place in your golden store of memories.

Although Eddie flies back and forth from home so often that we sometimes wonder if he is a day student, he usually makes up for lost time when he is around. No bull session is complete without "Ka-moora's" subtle remarks from the sidelines. He has the singular quality of destroying your best dramatic and oratorical effects, and usually provoking laughter instead of irritation.

Eddie has already had quite a taste of the business of living, and is a bit older than most of us. However, he makes no attempt to exhibit any show of superiority, but allows himself to be one of the crowd at all times.

Beavertown H. S., Selinsgrove H. S., and Beaver Vocational H. S.; Glee Club, (1, 2, 3); University Band, (1, 2, 3); University Orchestra, (1, 2, 3); Combined Choral Club, (3).

Almost all of the three years Charles has been at Susquehanna he has devoted exclusively to the Conservatory of Music. Since we hear from that source that he has an excellent voice and no mean ability on the piano and saxophone, we regret that we do not have more opportunity of hearing him.

In spite of his being so earnest and conscientious about his work in music, those who frequent the hallowed shrines of the "Con" will soon find that Charley is by no means a back number, but a congenial personality with a humorous twinkle always ready to appear in his otherwise thoughtful eyes.

Business is this young commuter's watchword, as you can readily see by casting a glance at his list of activities. When it comes to the financial or managerial side of anything, "Doc" is right on hand with the goods.

"Doc" even makes a business of pulling down "A's" in nearly every course which he has taken at college thus far, and he does it without running home at every opportunity to thrust his nose into a book. Lest we be misunderstood, the "Doctor" does not make a business of being businesslike. Good times, joviality, and a ready hand for everyone are all prominent in his makeup. Such a combination certainly bids fair for a successful future.

CLAIR W. DREIBELBIS

We welcomed "Dry" into our class with welcome arms this year, as his towering six feet and three inches gave us the distinction of having the tallest man in the college. "Dry" has made good use of this height to earn laurels in several sports, jumping center for the basketball team, and pulling down passes at end for the football team.

"Dry" grins a lot, even for his size, and this feature is greatly responsible for the easy way in which he mixes with his classmates. Happy-go-lucky by nature, this lanky lad is always ready to bear down when the occasion arises, as he has proven on many occasions on the athletic field and otherwise.

"Deacon" Edwards might be styled as the man with forty nicknames, since he acquired a greater variety of titles in his freshman year than usually falls to a person in a lifetime.

In his first two years, Paul gave promise of pursuing a most colorful and lively campus career, but upon becoming an upperclassman, he decided to avoid the public spotlight and settle down to Voltaire and the mysteries of chemistry.

Consequently, we don't see as much of "the Deacon" as we should like to, although he still likes to sit in on a good bull-session and regale the boys with tales of Blair Academy. Although we must all grow up some time, we sometimes wonder whether we prefer the dignified and intellectual Paul, or the former Freshman Edwards, who was always in the thick of things during the early days of '33.

An unusually active and retentive mind has kept "Flo" constantly hovering about the top sections, and an almost uncanny ability to recognize the fitness of things has ever marked her for a leader.

A friend finds her an interesting companion, and enemies simply don't find her. Good-natured and even-tempered, she is always dependable in the face of adversity. "Flo" usually finds something with which to occupy herself all of the time. A quiet nature, a deep-rooted character—an adequate description of "Flo."

JOHN E. EXTROM

Bachelor of Science Epsilon Sigma

Emporium High School; Varsity Football, (1, 2, 3), Captain-elect; Track, (2, 3).

It's not very difficult to pick out Big John as he shoulders his colossal frame through a crowd. Nor is it hard to spot him on the gridiron, smashing aside the opposition to smear many a play in back of the line.

John has been cracking up enemy lines for three years with such telling effect that his teammates have rewarded him by electing him to lead the Orange and Maroon in football for his Senior year.

Yet for all his power, it would be difficult to name a more considerate and gentle individual on our campus. No one is afraid of him, because they all know that Johnny is everybody's friend, and everybody is mighty glad to have him as such.

VASCO A. FANTI
Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

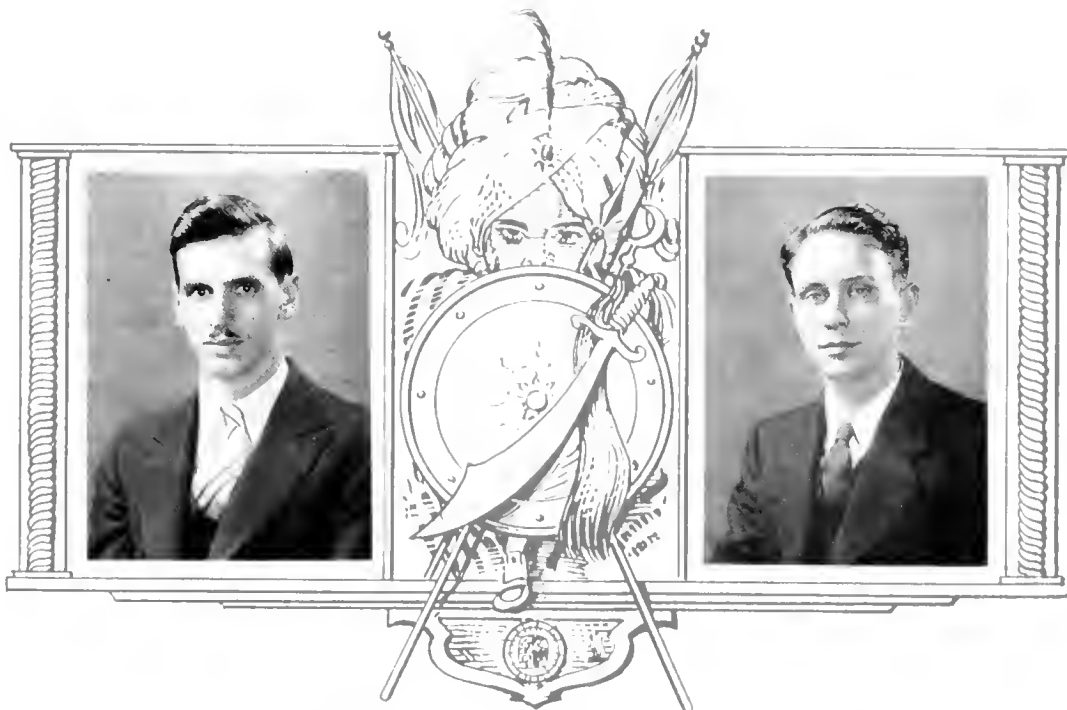

Bachelor of Science

Parsons High School.

This sturdy built youth is another example of the combination of a "tough hombre" and a peaceful nature, for while Fanti is very handy with his fists, he prefers making friends to enemies. To hear Vasco talk in his mild-mannered and well-modulated voice, one would not credit him with the drive and power which he has exhibited in football scrimmages and boxing in the gym.

Being a newcomer to our ranks this year, and working most of the time he is not in class, Fanti affords us only a sample of his person, but we can at least say that we are well satisfied with the sample, and would like to have a lot more.

JOHN W. FISHER
Selinsgrove, Pa.

Pre-medical Phi Lambda Theta

Selinsgrove High School; Class Football, (1); Class Track, (1, 2).

John is one of our industrious pre-medical students, who believes in getting practical experience at the Colony while attending college. This is a decided loss for the rest of us, for when John is not off the campus at his job, he is usually spending his time in the lab at Steele Science Building.

However, we do not begrudge John his time, as he is one of our outstanding chemistry students, and we feel confident that he will be a "medico" of great ability, and that many of his patients will also have occasion to feel grateful for the many hours that he has devoted to shaping his career.

Roscoe is another one of these Fishers who is interested in medicine. In fact, he is so ambitious that he expects to graduate this year and leave our class. However, he belongs rightfully to the Class of '33, and so we are keeping him in our group as long as possible.

Perhaps we should feel resentful towards Roscoe for being one of those diligent day students whose grades contrast painfully with ours, but he has taken care of that. Besides being an all-around good scout, he has one of the finest tenor voices heard on Susquehanna's campus for a long time. And music hath charms, you know. Well, Roscoe has charmed many, and will continue to do so, wherever he may go after leaving our halls.

Picture a loyal, ever-patient young lady with a quiet, yet definite sense of humor, and you have an inclusive description of Mabel.

She believes in getting places by the best way,—hard work, which she makes one of her hobbies. Not that she wastes hours on the books continually, for she believes in normal living and a little recreation for everyone. Her sense of humor is most remarkable, for while she has been known to wake up in the middle of the night to laugh at a morning's joke, still at other times she is most acute and trigger-like in appreciating a situation.

We shall not attempt to enlogize Mabel with mere words; she is too capable of making her own mark in life.

As a Freshman, Esther came to us from Lehighton rather quiet and reserved, but a few years have changed that. Possessing a good supply of brains and personality, she has proven herself to be one of the most popular members of our class. Disregarding the usual theory, athletic and scholastic honors have both been acquired quite readily by Esther.

Always ready for a good time, an excellent dancer, and a ready mixer, she possesses all the qualities necessary for a girl worth knowing. Best wishes, Esther.

Here we have the walking encyclopedia of the Junior Class, if not the whole College. "Gemmy" certainly lives up to his occasional nicknames of "Statistics" or "Clippings," for he never fails to produce the correct facts and figures from his mental storehouse of information.

However, "Gemmy" finds lots more to do than memorize the newspapers. He has put in many a long hour doing hard work for five or six of Susquehanna's major organizations, including "The Susquehanna," of which he has just been elected Editor-in-Chief.

Also adept on the basketball floor and the baseball diamond, "Gemmy" seems quite willing to give a hand in anything, and what is more important, the ability and keen sense of organization to do it.

This young lady's jovial disposition and happy ways have won many friends for her, as well as many offices of distinction. "Bea's" extreme good nature does not prevent her from being placed upon that austere body, Student Council.

Her classmates are willing to bet that some day "Bea" will hit high "C" on her trumpet. In fact, we really think she should have majored in that instrument, as the sounds she produces are indeed "wondrous and strange" to hear.

"Bea" has more than musical ability to offer when she goes out to teach public school music; we are sure that her pupils will not mind being taught "do-re-mi" by such a charming personality.

Here we have one of Susquehanna's most amiable young women. Mildred is a day student, nor would it be any misnomer to also call her a "night student" for she seems to invariably recite well whenever called upon.

Milly is dependable, always ready to lend a helping hand to anyone. Teaching is to be her life work, provided she does not become too domesticated before going far into that field. Otherwise, the teaching profession will have acquired one more competent pedagogue and leader for whatever community in which she may choose to work.

When John had finished explaining to everybody's satisfaction just why he had come to Susquehanna all the way from Massachusetts, he immediately settled down to a sensible life in which diligent study and recreation figured in the correct proportions.

Johnny never talks too much, but prefers to think things over in his own quiet, easy-going manner before making any comments or decisions. Consequently, he is well-liked by everyone, and especially so by those who are fortunate enough to be among his intimate friends.

Teaching should be easy for John, with his capacity for industry and his extremely agreeable disposition.

Somewhere down in the mosquito infested lands at a place known as Far Hills, Jo was first initiated into the intricacies of secondary education. Foreseeing a career in the lure of music, Jo decided to continue her bright young advance by crashing the portals of Susquehanna.

"Joey" has a line that even Chesterfield might envy. She can talk a blue streak, but we don't mind because we all like to hear her. Carefree, happy-go-lucky, and with a constant laugh that has permanently given "Ole Man Gloom" his walking papers, Jo should scatter sunshine wherever she may go from our campus.

Taxi? Oh! Our mistake. It's Mary Hummel transporting two other musically inclined young ladies and herself to and from classes. Mary heard that Vassar girls use bicycles in their search for knowledge, so she decided to go them one better by utilizing Henry Ford's product. If speed has anything to do with that indefinable thing called knowledge, Mary's name, like that of Abou Ben Adam should be placed first on the list.

Mary is majoring in voice, and she should have a successful future, since we hear that voice not only by her splendid singing but also in contributing excellent recitations in class. At any rate, we wish you all possible success, Mary.

Owing to lack of space, vocabulary, and rhetorical ability, Dot can hardly be justified in such a short biography. Let it suffice to say that her childhood was normal, her girlhood impressive, and her future very promising.

As to Dot herself, her cheerful disposition and optimism have carried her over many a rough spot. She takes her classes as they come, giving them just enough encouragement,—no more, no less. Similarly, she gives athletics their due share of her time. For the rest she tries to satisfy as much as possible her frequent admirers of the opposite sex.

Consequently, although Dot is studying business at present, we doubt if she will be able to escape the matrimonial net very long after departing from old S. U.

She's tall, she's dignified, she's serene, she's clever—that's Marge Ide in a flock of adjectives, and all appropriate, too.

Marge is an active participant in all phases of school life, not limiting all her ability and energy to music. Besides being an excellent student, she is usually to be found on hand at any of S. U.'s social functions. When our Class President left suddenly during our Freshman year, it was Marge who stepped in and capably took the reins.

Majoring in piano, Marge will probably some day teach music, and that will be a lucky day for some class. Her stately charm and sporting nature will prove to be valuable assets.

Our hopes to ministerial fame rest upon Ken as the sole remaining aspirant in that field in the Class of '33. At present he seems to be well on his way, dividing his time between study and library work, with recreation occasionally taking a few hours.

Ken's ultimatum on dancing should be favorable, for there are few that have his ability and consequently the appreciation of that terpsichorean art.

Always presenting a well-groomed appearance and a happy countenance, Ken should have no difficulty in travelling the road of the future.

Hail to "Barbie," '33's exponent of the modern American Girl! She possesses the athletic skill of an Amazon, the dramatic ability of a Barrymore, and the scientific insight of a Burbank. Now melancholy, now rhapsodical, this temperamental young lady certainly keeps us guessing.

During her moments of leisure (they occur rather frequently), she delights in expounding her philosophy of life to wide-eyed Freshmen. Elinor Glyn's third person singular is prominent as one of Barb's coveted qualities, and in addition, an optimism that is really inspiring.

Surely, Dame Fortune should smile on one blessed with such an assortment of gifts.

Much might be said about "Had," his physical and other sides. Athletically, of course, his six feet and some odd inches are a powerful factor on the gridiron, where he has laid many an opposing end low, and also on the basketball court, where he has developed into a Varsity man without having had any previous experience.

Such is Harold's makeup. When he starts out to do something, he does the job right. In his Senior year he will have a chance to further prove his initiative in guiding the financial destiny of "The Susquehanna" as Business Manager.

Since a good big man is always better than a good little man, we shall expect to hear of Had's being on the top some day.

Behold Amelia, Pittston's charming contribution to our class, whose extra-curricular activities run at high speed between Muhlenberg and Susquehanna.

She combines the many virtues of a Jane Austen heroine (diary and all) with the vivacity of a twentieth century coed. Neatness is Amelia's predominating characteristic, and history her one great intellectual passion. Her unusual ability for remembering various kinds of "dates" borders upon the uncanny.

Charlie once had the distinction of being the shortest man at Susquehanna. Whether he still is or not does not matter, for we know that he doesn't fall short when it comes to getting things done.

Although a day student, Charlie cannot be accused of remaining away from us too much, as he can always be seen fulfilling his duties on the athletic field any afternoon, and can always be counted on to be present when his class teams need him.

Charles is quite likely to succeed in life, since he takes a sincere interest in his studies or any other task which he undertakes. This desirable trait, coupled with his naturally cheerful and optimistic mood, should carry him far.

Every day is a lucky day for the girl who can smile, and Diana has many lucky days. She is so easy to get along with that her chief worry is probably in disposing of her many admirers (mostly male) without hurting their feelings. The hardest test of all, of close association, has shown "Dinny" to be the kind that we should always like to have near us.

"Dewher's" secret of making friends so readily is in being polite and considerate, happy-go-lucky by nature, and charmingly unaffected at all times. Predicting a successful future for Diana is like forecasting sunshine for June.

In spite of his quiet and retiring nature, "Mac" is one of the most popular men on the campus. His uncanny skill and headwork on the basketball floor have earned him a Varsity berth for three years, and he has been unanimously chosen to captain next year's five.

Bob's mild and easy-going manner do not prevent him from being a natural leader. In any situation he may be counted upon to use judgment that is calm, sound, and unbiased. This sterling quality, coupled with an extreme good nature and an acute sense of humor, are sure to carry "Mac" through with flying colors wherever he goes. A true and conscientious friend to all, all are friends of Bob.

Here's to Irish eyes and smiling Nan! We certainly are pleased to receive this witty "colleen" as a member of "33."

She has come back to S. U., rich with the glamor of little old New York. Unfortunately, for the boys, it seems she did not bring back her heart, which was last reported to be at large somewhere among the skyscrapers.

"Nan" is always a fun-loving pal, and an interested student who, coming from the "big city," wishes to learn more of the whys and wherefores of "big business."

Well, Irish luck and fondest hopes of your Alma Mater be with you, Nan.

When most people think of Bob as a very brilliant and capable pianist, they are considering the thing that means the most to him. We doubt if there are many students on the campus who enjoy and take their work as seriously as Bob does.

With so much time taken up by his music, he does not have much left in which to run around and have good times. Consequently, few know what a really likeable and agreeable chap Bob is. Ambition and ideals count most with him, and it is for this reason that he has sacrificed many things, including some real baseball ability, to advance in his chosen field.

Such earnestness cannot go unrewarded, and we are confident that Bob will never regret the way in which he has spent his time at Susquehanna.

Here we have one of Susquehanna's most colorful and lovable characters. Joe is an unusual combination, a man who loves to clown, but also possessing considerable intelligence and ability in a variety of fields. Since he came to our campus to start as a Sophomore, we can realize this fact more fully by a glance at the activities in which he has engaged.

Joe is so good natured that he actually gets a kick out of making someone laugh at himself, a rare quality indeed. Always on the spot to give a hand, he is certainly a desirable addition to our class. When Joe goes back to Philadelphia, it will be with our regret, but most enthusiastic support.

We would pardon your mistaking our Irene for Galli-Curci, but we wish you wouldn't let that happen, because we are far too proud of this golden-voiced little girl to want her identity to be compared to that of anyone else.

In her voice lie melodies of incomparable beauty, and her laughter ripples and sparkles like moonbeams on the dancing wavelets of the sea. We try to be witty when Irene is about, just to hear that pleasing, musical laugh.

The Conservatory proudly claims her as its own find, and hopes with reason that some day Irene may occupy an exalted position in the musical world.

"Walt" may be classed as one of the more quiet men of our class, but not so quiet that he does not enjoy a good time or a lengthy "bull session" now and then. The Puritan minds who bewail our self-centered and jazz-crazed generation cannot include "Walt" on their black list. His attitude is always gentlemanly and considerate to all.

When the boys gather around to expound with all their oratorical brilliance, "Walt" usually sits back and lets the others have their fling, but when he has something worthwhile to offer, he does not hesitate to express an opinion. "Walt" never looks for trouble, so we may be sure that he will seldom find any in the happy and prosperous future that we wish him.

"Dot" always keeps the classroom lively by her flow of puzzling questions and intelligent arguments. Sometimes she even comes near to convincing Dr. Ahl that she is an atheist, although she is always careful to erase any indication of misunderstanding by her ready wit and good nature.

All in all, Dorothea does have a serious side to her nature, and is always ready to help anyone when called upon to do so.

This blonde little Hercules needs no introduction. Those forlorn individuals are indeed in the minority who have not thrilled to see his sturdy figure weaving and slashing in spectacular gridiron runs, or breasting the tape time after time on the cinder path.

In addition to the numerous records which he has established at S. C., Johnny has the distinction of never having been bested, or even floored during two years of boxing on the campus.

Sometimes called cute by the ladies, and plenty tough by the men, Johnny is simply a true sportsman. A hard-earned victory means more in itself to him than all the plaudits any audience could possibly offer him.

In spite of the Shakespearean theorem, "familiarity breeds contempt," the more we see of her, the better we like her. Offering her own friendship and a rare tolerance of our own shortcomings, she leaves little to be asked for. Anna Gage invariably neglects herself for others, winning a host of friends, and still standing in the upper half of her class.

Fun-loving Sam doesn't weigh very much, but he certainly has a way with him, as he strives to uphold the honor of his Welsh blood and his native anthracite regions. It would take a chronic grouch to refrain from good wholesome laughter when this mischievous clown gets into his full stride.

In his more serious moods, of which he has his share, Sam aims at ideals much higher than his antics would indicate. He takes an active interest in everything, but especially those which are successful, and this is probably the keynote to his character. Not afraid of any one or thing, unless it be himself, he can match wits with the best of them, and usually comes out on top.

We look for this quality to carry Sam through a world in which success is dependent upon just such skillful and trigger-like action of the mental faculties.

An attractive appearance, a contagious smile, and a cheerful word for everyone have made Jack one of the most popular young men on the campus. After leaving for F. and M. in his Sophomore year, Jack found that Susquehanna had a stronger appeal which happily serves to keep him with us.

This energetic young man has served his class and school in a not only faithful, but also versatile manner. Aside from captaining Varsity Tennis, Jack has gone in for music, the cheering squad, social activity, various interclass competition, and dramatics, which last ability rates favorably with his classmates.

What he doesn't know about classical history, art, and literature, we can't say, but what he does know about them is a lot more than the rest of us can hope for in a lifetime. Bill does more than "lean towards the classics"; he's on top of them, with a firm grip.

Disregarding the conventional tendency of the artistic and sensitive mind to be melancholy and pessimistic, Bill is the very picture of optimism, with a big grin and a cheery "Hello" for all. Nor is he one of those day students who finish their last class and run off the campus like a scared cat.

Since Bill takes his art sensibly, his college sensibly, and his friends sensibly, there can be little doubt as to how he will face his problems in later life.

Johnny gets such a big kick out of everything that we are always glad to have him around. Life, to this brawny, jovial Dutch lad, is a bowl of cherries, a bed of roses, and a few other things, with an occasional rainstorm thrown in to contrast the bright days.

With John's happy-go-lucky nature goes also that seldom seen myth known as school spirit—the love of a game for itself, which makes a gracious winner, and a good loser. And John is going places, too, with the additional practical quality of a sound knowledge of mathematics, which he intends to teach.

We are indeed happy to contribute this man to a world sadly in need of such individuals to laugh and scorn at the futility of pessimism.

First we see her in Counterpoint Class, searching diligently for octaves and fifths, maintaining at the same time, a rapid fire conversation with her nearest companion. Then, presto, an hour later she is Miss Shively, Secretary to Professor Sheldon, efficiently attending to her many office duties.

Such industry is typical of Bea's make-up, but whether she leads a life of business and figures, or a life of music and measures, we are backing her every step of the way.

As a matter of fact, Fran's major is really piano, and although she applies herself seriously to that instrument, she also firmly believes that "All work and no play make Fran a dull girl." Thus, she mixes her work with play until she finds she can enjoy herself whether attending a dance or studying French.

When asked "What can college do for a man?", we always point with pride to our friend Don Steele, of Northumberland, Pa. From a bashful, blushing Freshman who was almost afraid to breathe in the presence of his uppers, Don has emerged into a self-asserting personality, and how he likes it!

Now the new Don expounds vociferously on philosophy, politics, and economics with much gesture and dramatic touch, and also toots away on his saxophone until his naturally rosy cheeks assume proportions of extreme crimson. What a man!

In all seriousness, there are few individuals on our campus as likable and as good-natured as Don. If he takes more "rides" than the average, it is because his tormentors know that he will always take it in fun, and respond with a broad grin or snappy retort. We expect to see Don as a successful lawyer some day.

Roughish and spankable at times, but sunny and thoroughly likable at all times, Mary is an excellent companion. She combines this happy-go-lucky disposition with a real determination to accomplish whatever job is at hand, even be it one of those "Say, c'mere, Didja hear this one?" It is difficult to think of anything but track when we think of Bill, for we always picture a clean-limbed athlete striding gracefully around a quarter mile track. After all, Bill's character could hardly be better described than by the figure he makes on the field.

Always by working hard and clean living does Bill strive to accomplish his aims, and this formula for athletes is certainly applicable to all forms of life. When the going is hard, he calls upon that last ounce of reserve which he has built up by training, and if he loses, he is quite ready to admit the better man.

A wonderful example of the true American sportsman, Bill should take the hurdles of life as he does on the cinder path, without missing a stride, and without falling over the hurdles.

George is one of those rare individuals who keeps so quiet about his accomplishments that we never realize what he can do until it's all over. An excellent illustration of this occurred when he appeared unheralded, and bested strong competition to earn a berth on the Penn Relay squad.

"Trucky" has a keen and original mind which is quite refreshing in contrast with so many "strictly type" college men of today, even the way he smokes his pipe being distinctly individual. His talents run from the athletic through dramatics, poetry, science, and back down to his amusing little inventions and characteristic ideas.

And as for "Trucky" himself, well, he's just an all-around "good egg."

However, Ray gives us much of his time, and being a good mixer and an excellent dancer, he has overcome any handicap which might be attributed to his being a day student. In fact, at any dance or affair at which he happens to be, he seldom allows the grass to grow under his feet. ANOTHER year has come to a close, and this one has proven even more enjoyable and more successful than the first. We found ourselves more at home this year, and really began to appreciate the advantages which old S. U. had to offer us.

Alumni Day was our first big day; it meant so much more this year than it did in our Freshman year. Now we could welcome back old friends. It is also to be remembered because of the Frosh-Soph football game, which we won in an impressive manner. Too bad, Frosh! Better luck next year. That victory served only as an appetizer. Soon after, the men won the Interclass Soccer Championship, while the co-eds came in a close second in their games. In the Spring we measured up to expectations by winning first place in the Indoor Track Meet.

But athletics are not the only field in which we are interested. The debating teams made out very well this year, with the assistance of several Sophomores. Others of our classmates have gained prominent positions on the Susquehanna, campus musical organizations, dramatics, and other major groups. With such representation in the various activities on the campus, great things may be expected from the Class of '34 in the future.

This year was filled with first one thing and then another, with something always going on—such as, a meeting, rehearsals, games, hurried rushes to the library to finish up a late report, and so on.

But when it is all over, we can readily call it a very successful year, while at the same time we are looking forward to higher achievements in the future.

THE date, September 14, 1931, should go down as a very important one in the annals of Susquehanna University. Why? Because on that date the Class of '35 first assembled here to carry out the traditions established by those who have gone before.

For several days the spotlight was turned upon us. There were lectures, parties, intelligence and Bible tests (shall we ever forget them?). Acquaintances were made which later blossomed into friendships that will always be treasured.

About a week after our arrival—September 22, to be exact—the traditional Frosh “Get-Away” was staged along the main street of Selinsgrove, and proved to be a decided success from the Freshman point of view. However, the Sophs, whom we were prone to recognize as our superiors, saw to it that our rules were enforced. From then on we were easily identified by dinks, armbands, and divers sorts of “name plates.”

With the realization that we were now an organized college group, we settled down for a quiet, peaceful existence—for the time being. This was temporarily shattered by an outburst of indignation following the premature burning of our Homecoming bonfire, and the Frosh proceeded to “paint the town red.” This may be considered as a blot on our otherwise commendable record, but does it not prove that we were already prepared to defend the welfare of old S. U. as our own flesh and blood?

Since those early and long to be remembered weeks, we have contributed our share to extra-curricular activities on the campus, furnishing valuable material for Varsity squads, and showing great interest in interclass competition and other activities. We have been well represented in the Glee and Choral Clubs, Band, Orchestra, Debating, and successfully edited the Freshman issue of The Susquehanna under the guidance of Mervin Logue.

As this, our initial year at Susquehanna, comes to a close, we may well look back with satisfaction, and also forward with anticipation for the years to come, hoping that all we do may be for the best for our Alma Mater.

ATHLETICS, under the direction of Professor Luther Day Grossman, have continued to occupy a prominent position in the face of severe adverse conditions. Despite one of the worst years in financial history, and an enrollment of men students who are able to take part in athletics reduced to about 150, Susquehanna has continued to put out fighting teams in five varsity sports.

Winning teams at Susquehanna have a real significance, since their members are strictly amateur, and are so much a part of the classroom and campus as any other student. This factor should be kept well in mind when considering the records of the various teams.

Interclass and fraternity competition have also been greatly encouraged, and by the co-operation of Professor Grossman and the Intra-Mural Board, have earned much popularity during the past year.

Football

Bill Adams, Captain

THIS year's football team, with new men filling half the line and backfield positions, was erratic on the whole, showing at times brilliance and a powerful attack, but also proving disappointing on several occasions.

Coach Bill Ullery and his new assistant, Herb Snell, developed some good material to fill in the vacancies, but were handicapped on many occasions by injuries.

Johnny Meyers and Zip Rishel formed a nucleus for the backfield, to which Steve Martinec and John Hanna were added, forming a fast and capable combination on the offense. Excellent reserve material to support this quartet was found in Sprout, VanNuys, and Wasilewski, who all turned in some fine performances when called upon to fill the breach.

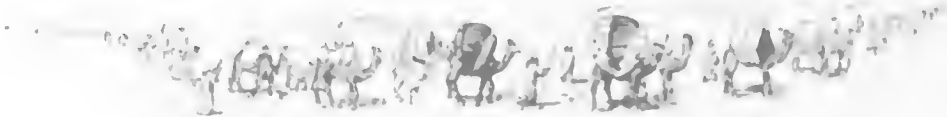

Jack Auchmuty, veteran of four years, proved to be the mainstay of the forward line, blocking plays and opening holes on many timely occasions. Working with him effectively were Captain Adams and Herb Spigelmyer at ends, and big John Extrom at tackle. Tice, Freshman, was worked into the other tackle, with Dutch Witkop and Harold Kramer alternating at the other guard position. Rich Fisher capably retained his post at center.

This line performed well when all together, but injuries constantly intervened, the end positions suffering greatly, where Dreibelbis, Schlegel, and Rummell saw frequent service. Similarly, Meyers and Rishel were forced out of action on several occasions, to be replaced by our able reserve backs. Carl Gray, Eisenhower, and Bill Sullivan were awarded numerals for their substitute service, while Vince Walsh was laid up in the opening game with cracked ribs, after showing much promise as an open field runner.

As a team, the Crusaders suffered no overwhelming defeats, and had they repeated the excellent performance of the Haverford and Washington games, they would have completed an exceptional season.

George Hess

Delaware

The initial game of the 1931 football season, at Delaware, ended in a 27-0 defeat for the Orange and Maroon. With much new material, the team was unable to cope with the strong, experienced eleven which Delaware University was able to put on the field.

One of the great handicaps facing our team was the wealth of reserve material at the call of Coach Rogers, of Delaware.

The Crusaders came within scoring distance only during the third quarter, when Kramer broke through to block a punt on Delaware's 40-yard line. The backs, however, were unable to penetrate further than the 20-yard stripe, losing the ball there on downs.

Haverford

With nearly four hundred parents in the stands and a beautiful sky overhead for Parents' Day, Susquehanna's gridiron warriors completely out-classed their visitors from Haverford, 18-0. This impressive victory provided a climax which seemed to make the third annual Parents' Day program the most successful to date.

Outweighed in both line and backfield, the Crusaders completely outplayed the down-staters in every department of the game. Yardage piled up on end runs and off-tackle slices by Meyers, Rishel, and Martinec proved too much for Haverford, even with the help of their ponderous 280-pound Captain Fields.

The Orange and Maroon machine which performed on this day gave an exhibition of football that won the commendation of all.

Alfred

Fate and the weather-man played havoc with the Orange and Maroon at Alfred, N. Y., as they came out on the short end of a 26-12 score.

Striking hard and fast in the early minutes of the game, the Ullerymen had run up a 12-0 lead at half time. However, playing in snow and rain, the rest failed to be beneficial for the Crusaders, chilled to the bone in uniforms cold and heavy with rain and mud.

Alfred, refreshed with dry equipment, immediately took advantage of the fumbles from numbed hands, and with Susquehanna growing more weak and helpless, finally overtook us in the final quarter, and rolled up a substantial lead.

Hamilton

The Homecoming Day battle with Hamilton College was written into the historic annals as an 18-7 defeat for Susquehanna.

The heavier and stronger Hamilton machine outplayed the Ullerymen through most of the game, although the Crusaders played inspired football during the second quarter, and held a 7-6 lead through the third period.

Then Hamilton's running attack, with Seobie, pile-driving fullback in the stellar role, proved too much for the weakening Orange and Maroon defense, and the visitors smashed on to victory.

Auchmuty and Extrom put up a great fight on the line, while Meyers and Hanna were effective in the backfield.

Juniata

For the third successive year, the Juniata Indians dangled a Susquehanna scalp from their belts, before a large crowd at Huntingdon.

Opening the Season

One hundred seventeen

Kramer, Dreibeis, Tice, Schlegel, Rummell

In spite of the best efforts of a determined Orange and Maroon eleven, a much stronger Juniata combination piled up the largest score in the nine years of keen football rivalry between the two institutions.

The Indians went on the warpath from the very beginning, with Petty and Renninger gaining at will. The final score was 26-2, Susquehanna scoring two lone points when Jevons, Juniata punter, stepped over the safety zone attempting to kick out of danger.

The punting of Martinec, flashy Freshman fullback, was the bright feature of the game for the Orange and Maroon.

Washington

Exhibiting the fighting spirit for which they are noted, the Crusaders completely outclassed Washington College in the final home game of the season, rolling up a total of 25 points to their opponent's nothing.

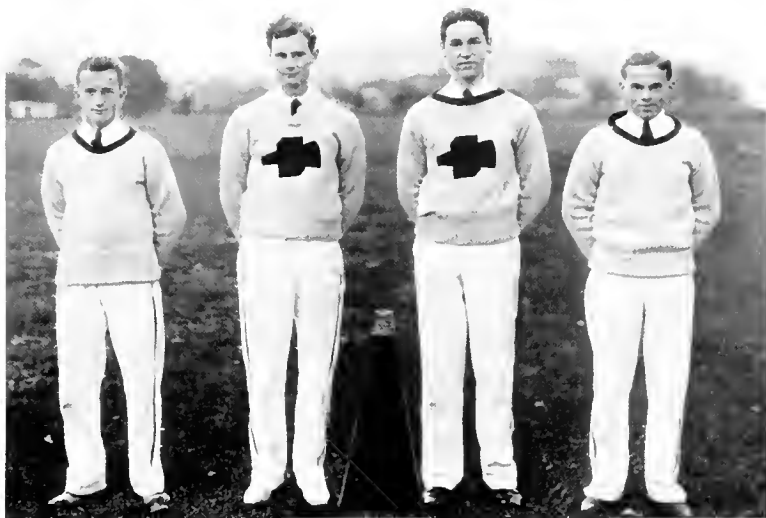

Off-tackle slices and end runs proved disastrous to the visitors, as the local backs slashed off great slices of yardage, to push four touchdowns across.

Touchdown! Susquehanna versus Washington.

Acting Captain Jack Auchmuty and Extrom were outstanding for the Crusaders, with six Seniors—Captain Adams, Auchmuty, Spigelmyer, Sprout, Witkop, and Rummel—performing on University Field for the last time.

Pennsylvania Military College

Crippled with injuries, the Orange and Maroon went down to a 13-0 defeat at the hands of the P. M. C. Cadets in the final of the 1931 gridiron season.

Utilizing their great advantage in weight, the Chester team centered an attack on the line, using reverse bucks and off-tackle slices for their greatest gains.

Susquehanna's only touchdown threat came in the final quarter when VanNuys intercepted a pass on his own 10-yard line and raced 55 yards before being brought to earth.

Martinee's soaring punts, some of them around 70 yards, were again a consolation to the Ullerymen, greatly checking the attack of the Cadets.

Basketball

Herb Rummell
Captain

WINNING and losing six games, the Varsity basketball quintet enjoyed another successful season, since it suffered several defeats at the hands of teams out of Susquehanna's class.

Lebanon Valley, always a strong contender for the championship of the Middle Atlantic States, and Delaware repeated their conquests of former years, while LaSalle's improved five registered two six-point victories. Juniata handed the Orange and Maroon the remaining defeat, smarting under a previous defeat.

Among our victims were the Alumni, Temple Pharmacy, Juniata, Elizabethtown (twice), and Haverford. The game with Juniata in the Alumni Gym was probably the most exciting of the season, with the Crusaders finally winning out by a lone point, 22-21.

Wasilewski and VanNuys were the high point scorers during the season, sinking shots with deadly accuracy from all points.

Captain Rummell, although not reaching his customary form in shooting, continued to play hard, heads-up basketball, always fighting for possession of the ball or leading his mates in a last-minute rally.

Swede Palmer, at the pivot position, and also at guard, maintained his usual steady and consistent game. Although not a brilliant scoring man, Swede has always been a dependable floor man, and also very adept at handling and passing the ball.

However, it was Bob McGeehan, captain-elect for 1933, who proved to be the tower of strength on the Crusader quintet. Always playing the biggest scoring threat on the opposing team, this long-limbed guard was not only the backbone of the defense, but also the mainspring of the offense. Mac's uncanny way of handling the ball and accuracy in long shots saved many a situation for the Ullerymen.

Kapic, Kramer, and Schlegel also earned Varsity awards for their work during the past season, while Malasky, Tomlin, and Bruce Worthington received numerals.

Captain

SUSQUEHANNA'S baseball team passed through an erratic season in the spring of 1931, winning the first two games in brilliant fashion, then dropping five in a row, and finally winding up with a glorious victory over a supposedly invincible Juniata nine.

There were two bright spots in that season. First, Hugh Brinninger entered baseball's Hall of Fame by pitching a no-hit, no-run game against Moravian College on April 25th, while the Ullerymen romped through to a 6-0 victory. Pitching steady, though not brilliant ball, Brinninger kept the Moravian batsmen well under control through most of the game, and when he weakened a bit in the closing innings, his teammates came through with some sensational catches to help this Sophomore twirler accomplish his most unusual feat.

Second, and no less in importance, was the Crusaders' final victory over Juniata in a most unexpected upset. Pouncing upon the Indian hurler in the first inning, the Ullerymen quickly tallied four runs in a flawless exhibition of bunting and base-running, combined with some timely hits. Both teams then remained scoreless, Captain Donnell pitching shutout ball during the whole game. This victory over a traditional rival, superior in name only, turned a mediocre season into a decidedly successful one.

Indications for 1932 seem to forecast another irregular season for Coach Ullery's diamond stars. Possessing a batting punch and a capable pitching staff, the team is woefully weak in fielding and throwing the ball.

In the opening game, Susquehanna batted out an overwhelming 20-4 win over Elizabethtown, with Maimon pitching his first starting game. Soon after, the Crusaders accomplished a new feat in her baseball records by edging out a hectic 17-16 victory over Penn State, in which they again showed tremendous batting power, but nearly lost the contest with poor fielding.

The excellent hurling of "Lefty" Danks, returned to the Susquehanna fold, was to no avail in succeeding games, as unearned runs spelled defeat in the next three contests.

Martinez and Hanna have been setting a lively batting pace for the veterans, but Malasky, Stroup, and Palmer have also been contributing some effective stickwork. The burden of the pitching has fallen on Danks, with Briminger, Maimon, and Meyer also ready for duty.

STRONG in certain events, but weak in others, the Varsity track team passed through a mediocre season in the spring of 1931. However, the thorough trouncing given to Bucknell and a good showing in the Penn Relays kept the year's record from being a disappointment.

Prof. Grossman, coach of the spiked shoe artists, was forced to build in new material in several events where the Crusaders' showing had formerly been strong, notably the field events.

The Orange and Maroon's strongest fields were in the dashes and hurdle races, where Captain Johnston, Neiswenter, Meyers, and Swarm proved to be consistent point-getters. Coldren and Muir did well in their special event, the pole vault, while Carolan, Knepp, and Oberdorf contributed a majority of the remaining points.

In the opening meet with Bucknell, the Crusaders sent our rivals from up the river back to Lewisburg, smarting under a one-sided defeat. From the time Johnny Meyers and Johnston leaped out under the opening gun to take first and second in the 100-yard dash, Prof. Grossman's charges were never overtaken.

Going out of their class, the Orange and Maroon cinder performers received a decisive setback at the University of Delaware, Knepp and Captain Johnston turning in the only first places for Susquehanna, in the 2-mile and low hurdles, respectively.

In the final dual meet of the year, Juniata came down to University Field to continue its practice of winning by a small margin. The meet was won in the last event, the half-mile, in which the Indians took the first two places.

In the Penn Relay Carnival, Prof. Grossman took Meyers, Knouse, Carolan, and Swarm to Philadelphia to run a close second to Juniata, after battling with Drexel for first place all the way.

Susquehanna placed fourth in the Central Pennsylvania Conference, but were actually less than three points behind second and third places, and only seven from Ersinus, the winners. The Conference was held on University Field, with Susquehanna as host to the various teams.

James Brubaker
Manager

In this meet, Johnny Meyers performed the outstanding accomplishment of the season by streaking to victory in the century dash in the unofficial, but nevertheless remarkable time of 9.8 seconds.

Malasky, Hartline, and Weliky earned numerals for their performances in the dual meets.

Prospects for the 1932 season appear favorable. The Crusaders again ran second to Juniata at the Penn Relays, with Meyers, Stahlman, Captain Neiswenter, and Swarm running for the Orange and Maroon. This quartet should earn many points during the present season, with only Johnston and Knepp lost from last year's team. Bottiger, Malasky, Huston, Extrom, Martinee, Hanna, and Jones are shaping up well among the new men.

Tennis

Jack Petry
Captain

THE patched-up Varsity tennis team failed to win a meet during the 1931 season, after going through the previous season undefeated.

The Orange and Maroon racquet wielders tied Elizabethtown at 3-3 in the opening fray, with Petry and Weliky winning their singles and doubles. In the remaining meets, the only other matches won were by Melvin Adams, singles, against Lebanon Valley, and Captain Speer and Burford in a doubles match against the same outfit in a return engagement.

The present season of 1932 looks more hopeful, with Dr. George Seidel coaching, and Bill Adams returning to action with the Crusaders.

Captain Petry led his aggregation to a 5-2 victory over Mansfield State Teachers College to open the season. Adams, Speer, and Schlegel won their singles, while the Speer-Adams and Petry-Schlegel combinations clicked to conquer in their doubles.

The present schedule will prove a stiff one for the wearers of the Orange and Maroon, with such opposition as Villanova, Bucknell, Lebanon Valley, Penn State, and Juniata to overcome.

However, the improved racquet artists should make a good showing, with the addition of Bill Adams, and the much improved playing of Jerauld Schlegel. Herb Rummel, playing his second year of Varsity tennis, completes the team's roster.

Dr. Seidel's expert ability and knowledge of the game should be an important factor in strengthening the 1932 combination.

ATHLETIC activity is provided for women at Susquehanna by arranging inter-class competition in many various sports, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Welsh Reeder, Instructor in Physical Education for women.

Much interest and keen rivalry are developed in these contests, which cover field hockey, soccer, basketball, volleyball, track, baseball, and tennis.

The women of the Class of '32 accomplished a very unusual and difficult task during the current year by capturing the championship of every competition which was staged.

Lucille Lehman
President, Women's Athletic Club

Aside from this undisputed supremacy of the Senior co-eds, the other class teams engaged in some very close and exciting competition.

The "big three" of the '32 group, Crebs, Leese, and Lehman, were outstanding during the year 1931-32 in all sports, Miss Crebs breaking the indoor track record in the hop, skip, and jump event.

THIS council is one of the most outstanding organizations on Susquehanna's campus. It consists of ten men, two representatives from each fraternity and two members from the non-fraternity group.

Its purpose is to help the student interests and to serve the general standing of the college itself. Thus the matters with which it deals are quite varied arising from the various phases of college life and its relation to the individual student.

One of the most outstanding features performed by the council this year was the donation of two hundred dollars to the Physics Laboratory, and fifty dollars towards the purchasing of a volume of new books in the College Library.

WOMEN'S CO-OPERATIVE COUNCIL was established on this campus, October 25, 1925. Miss Barbara De Reemer was first president and instigator in bringing this organization, which has proven a great step forward toward bettering the living conditions in Seibert Hall and furthering the advancement of welfare of the College in general.

Miss Naomi K. Hade, Dean of Women, who came to Susquehanna during the second year of co-operative government, has done much to perfect this system of government. It is hoped, however, by contact with similar and more mature governments, in other colleges and universities, our local government will continue to improve, not only for its own cause but for the general standing of the college itself.

THIS body was first organized in 1927-28 in order to create and maintain a more friendly relationship among the fraternities by a fair and honest consideration of the many problems which confront fraternity men as a group.

The membership is made up of eight men, two representatives from each fraternity.

Certain regulations regarding rushing and bidding are taken care of by this organization. The installation of a preferential bidding system was one of their first achievements. This year, in addition to their regular duties, they sponsored an Intra-Fraternity Dance which was one of the most successful of the year.

THIS group is similar to the Inter-Fraternity Council in aim and in composition. The Inter-Sorority Council has been in existence for many years and through it a more congenial relationship is maintained among the sororities.

Nine women, three representing each sorority, make up this membership. The presidents and vice-presidents of the sororities automatically become members and the other representatives are chosen by election, by the individual group.

Through the efforts of this organization practically all sorority affairs have been of intersorority origin, thus increasing the spirit of co-operation.

Π GAMMA MU is the National Social Science Honor Society, founded December 1, 1924, having for its object "to encourage and reward the undergraduate study of social science." The term "social science" is used in the broadest sense possible.

Pennsylvania Gamma Chapter at Susquehanna was formerly organized and installed in 1927, now having a total membership of 117, including faculty, alumni and undergraduates.

Members are elected by faculty members of the Chapter, usually about ten Juniors being chosen annually. They qualify themselves by manifesting interest in social science, in which they must have taken at least twenty semester hours with an average of "B," must be of good character, and have a satisfactory scholastic standing in general.

Motto "Der Mensch kann was er will."

NOT a "touch of misery," but a common language "makes the whole world kin." The German department has aided in giving us a touch of both.

Der Deutsche Verein was organized in 1930, under the direction of Professor Gilbert, aiming more at "being able to say it" than at the abstract technicalities of syntax.

The most important meeting during the current year was a celebration commemorating the centennial of Goethe's death on March 22.

THE membership of the Varsity "S" Club is composed of those who have won their letter in any Varsity sport.

For several years the Varsity "S" Club was one of the outstanding organizations of the campus. During 1924 and 1925 this organization was exceedingly active and it was at this time that the beautiful gates at the entrance to the athletic field were made possible through the efforts of this club. The structure stands as a monument to the labors of this body of athletes.

This year, after six years of inactivity, the Club has presented the University with one hundred pine trees, distributed in various parts of the athletic field and neighboring vicinities.

The chief purpose of the Club is to keep the letter men together and to show deference and hospitality to visiting teams.

Words fail to adequately convey what actually is required to make a distinctive year book.

It needs more than merely a printer—it demands real understanding by an organization who knows what to do and has the experience and facilities for doing it.

Our aim for every book is improvement, and we make certain that book after book leaves our hands bearing the marks of a distinctive "difference."

From us you may expect a sympathetic appreciation of your problems, and a proven ability for working them out, which gives the finesse to your book that makes it a cherished and lasting possession.

Your Year Book lasts a life time and is printed only once. It must be good. Take no chances.
